A sign language is a way of communicating by using the hands and other parts of the body. The sign language is an important way for deaf people to communicate. Deaf people often use them instead of spoken languages.

Spoken languages are sounds from the mouth and are understood with the ears. Sign languages use hands and are understood with the eyes. Deaf people can use sign languages more easily than spoken languages. They sometimes learn a sign language from their family, especially if their parents are deaf. But most deaf children have hearing parents, so they learn a sign language from other deaf people. They may meet other deaf people at school or in the streets. Hearing people may learn the sign language directly from deaf people, or they may learn it by going to signing classes or by studying a sign language book.

63. What is the difference between spoken and sign languages?

64. How do most deaf people learn a sign language?

65. Hearing people cannot learn any sign language. a) True b) False

66. Sign language is not important for deaf people. a) True b) False

67. Sign language uses hands and other parts of the body. a) True b) False
